

Coeur d'Alene Public Schools provide Ready Math instructional materials to all students in grades Kindergarten through grade 08. These materials emphasize a problem solving-based approach that strengthens students' learning muscles and builds conceptual understanding through reasoning, practice, and productive discussion using real-world scenarios.

Ready Math also includes an adaptive online component called i-Ready where can receive personalized lessons based on their growth demonstrated on its diagnostic exams and growth checks throughout the year. Students can receive lessons for an identified "hole" in their learning or for faster advancement through the standards no matter their current grade level.

Our district does readily provide licenses for students in need, but if you feel that your student would benefit from additional practice at school or home in mathematics, you may consider purchasing a license.

License Cost

i-Ready licenses are available throughout the year and expire in late August in preparation for the coming academic year. The costs adjust as the year continues (per student):

- $30 for the year (through end of August) if purchased between September 1 – October 31
- $24 for access (through end of August) if purchased between November 1 – January 31
- $18 for access (through end of August) if purchased between February 1 – April 30
- $12 for access (through end of August) if purchased after May 1

Questions:

Please contact our district office at (208) 664-8241 or email: testing@cdaschools.org
 Once purchased, instructions for access will be provided to the email/physical address on file.
