

News from Room 110

January 25, 2024

Hello,

Okay – so, what is up with this crazy weather?! It will be interesting what the next pattern brings!

We have had a busy week in room 110. We completed our end of semester assessments! ☺ We started a new unit about fractions in math. The students invented a character who they will become during Idaho history time. Their characters are traveling with Lewis and Clark and will be doing a lot of writing from their perspective. We also read, wrote, and discussed – just like always!

Next week we will continue our learning from this week. We have a new list for our spelling focus. It will be business as usual. We might actually get five days in next week!

Please check out the UPCOMING EVENTS. There are a lot of things coming our way in the next few weeks!

Please keep helping your child practice multiplication facts. Also, I am seeing a serious decline in at home reading. That little extra boost of reading time at home is so beneficial to your child's learning!

Until next time,
Michele Rutherford
